FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

ARRIVAL OF THE LOCUST POINT.

THE POSITION ON THE TECHE.

Gens. Franklin and Washburn at Camp Bisland.

Guerrilla Operations Near Donaldsonville.

IMPORTANT ORDER BY GENERAL BANKS.

A Conscription Ordered in the First and Second Congressional Districts.

The steamer Locust Point, from New-Orleans Oct. 1, arrived at this port last evening, and we have received our files of the city journals to that date.

No mention is made of army movements, and the truth of the reported repulse of FRANKLIN's corps at Brashear City, and the subsequent victory of Gen. Ord, is not mentioned.

The papers state nothing respecting the health of the city.

The headquarters of the Nineteenth army corps, under Gen. FRANKLIN, and part of the Thirteenth army corps, under Gen. C. C. WASHBURN, are at Camp Bisland, 60 miles from Brashear City. They have met no enemy as yet. Foraging parties have gathered up large quantities of mules, horses and cattle, but the plantations are generally deserted. The advance of the army was delayed on account of obstructions in the Bayou Teche. These obstructions were blown up, and the Bayou Teche is now open for steamers to New-Iberia.

On the 22d, at 1 A. M., a raid was made on the telegraph office situated opposite Donaldsonville, by a band of guerrillas, and fourteen men of the New-York Fourteenth cavalry and the telegraph operator (Mr. ALLEN, of Illinois,) were captured and taken off. In consequence of this raid, and the reports of bands of guerrillas being in the vicinity of Donaldsonville, from 300 to 400 strong, an expedition was sent in motion to clear the country in that neighborhood. The expedition left Carrollton on the night of the 24th by steamboat, about 1,000 men strong, under command of Brig.-Gen. BURBRIDGE. He reconnoitered the whole country to the Amite River without meeting the enemy, and returned to Carrollton on the 28th, without casualties.

Lieut. KARL, of the Fourth Wisconsin, in command of a squad of 40 men, (cavalry,) marched from Baton Rouge on the 20th, as far as the Comite River. He captured fourteen prisoners, their arms, horses and equipments. Among them were the notorious Col. HUNTER and Capt. PERRY, guerrilla chiefs.

It is known that Gen. LOGAN (rebel) is on the east side of the Mississippi River, seven or eight miles below Morganza Bend, with 3,500 men and four pieces of artillery, and is supposed to be marching to Liberty, Miss., where a rebel force is concentrating.

The following interesting and important order is published:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, NEW-ORLEANS, Sept. 29, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 70.—I. The heroic efforts of the Army of the United States have reestablished the free navigation of the Mississippi and its tributaries. The vindication of the freedom of these waters by the iron hand of war, against a confederation of rebel States, is an event of equal import with their discovery and settlement, and makes the Union a nation. It is a baptism of blood. In a brief period of time this vast and fertile valley will be opened to the peaceful commerce of the world.

Notwithstanding the ravages of war, the destruction of property, the dispersion of industry, and the demoralizing reputation, the inhabitants may not offer a nobler theatre for intelligent enterprise than the Valley of the Mississippi. The cultivation of new products, the application of new elements and different systems of labor, the immediate reorganization of local governments, and the resistless energy of many millions of freemen, will create individual and national wealth, such as the world has never seen. Never was a country better worth fighting for, better worth defending.

The highest duty of the people is to maintain and defend the freedom of the Mississippi, upon which depends the support of the present and the hope of the future. The Government is entitled to the armed assistance of all those who claim the right of citizens, or seek to share their privileges. Those who covet the profits of trade, disclaiming citizenship and acknowledging allegiance to foreign nations only, remain here by permission and favor, and not of right.

In the performance of this duty, and to assist in maintaining the important advantages secured by a free communication between the Valley of the Mississippi and the markets of the world, the citizens of the First and Second Congressional Districts of Louisiana, liable to military duty, have been enrolled for general military service, in accordance with the provisions of the law of Conscription, passed by Congress, so far as it may be applicable to this department. Proper publication will be hereafter made of the number of troops required for this purpose, and the time and manner of their selection. The conscription will not be held to embrace those well-disposed persons who, in the event of capture by the enemy, would not be entitled to the full immunity of soldiers of the United States.

2. The organization of one or more volunteer regiments, to be designated "The Louisiana Volunteers," whose services will be limited by the terms of enlistment, to the protection and defence of New-Orleans, is hereby authorized. Volunteers for this service will receive a bounty of one hundred dollars, twenty-five dollars of which, and one month's pay, will be advanced when the volunteer is mustered into service for the war. Capt. C. W. KILLONGE, Provost-Marshal of the City of New-Orleans, is charged with the immediate organization and command of the First regiment; Capt. C. B. BROWN, Provost-Marshal of the Parish of Jefferson, is authorized to organize and command the Second regiment. The First regiment will be recruited and organized in the City of New-Orleans, excepting the Fourth District, and the Second within the limits of the Parish of Jefferson and the Fourth District of New-Orleans.

3. Able-bodied men of color between the ages of 20 and 30 years, employed upon Government or on private plantations, will be detained for military service in the Corps d'Afrique, upon order of the Commission of Enrollment. No officer or other person is allowed to recruit men for any special regiment of that corps, and every officer recruiting for this corps, under this order, will be furnished with, and required to exhibit, authority for his acts, signed by the Superintendent of Recruiting, and approved by the Commission of Enrollment. Substitutes will be received in cases where the labor of the recruit is specially required, and exemptions allowed in cases of necessity, upon application to the Commission of Enrollment, but by no other person or authority. Arrangements will be made to secure the crops of the season, and laborers will be furnished as far as practicable to supply the vacancies occasioned by by the execution of this order. The first duty of those engaged in the cultivation of the soil is to protect it from invasion, and those whose interests are inconsistent with a vigorous defence of the department, or who are indifferent to the invasion of a public enemy, can have no rights which the Government is bound to respect.

By command of Major-Gen. BANKS.
C. NORMAN LIEBER, A. A. A. General.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS HARBOR.

Return of the Iron-Clad Weehawken—No Important Movement—Indications of a Fire in Charleston.

The United States steam-transport Carlos, Capt. from Port Royal Oct. 4, with the iron-clad Weehawken in tow from Charleston, arrived at this port yesterday afternoon. Left at Port Royal sloops-of-war Vandalia and John Adams; gunboats Flag, Wissahickon, Mahaska and South Carolina; iron-clads Patapsco and Passaic; steam-transports Thomas Thorne, Prometheus, Tully and Fair Haven; also, a large fleet of barks, brigs and schooners. Sailed from Charleston 6th, at 6 A. M. She brings a mail from there and fourteen discharged soldiers. On the 6th inst., off Cape Fear, passed steamship Arago, hence for Port Royal.

CHARLESTON HARBOR, Monday, Oct. 5.

Under this date our correspondent at Morris Island sends the following:

All is quiet, except occasional firing from the rebel forts. Gen. GILLMORE's preparations are nearly complete; and it is believed that active operations will soon be resumed. The steamers Fah-Kee and Commodore Dupont arrived yesterday from Fortress Monroe.

REPORTS VIA BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Friday, Oct. 8.

The following has been received from the correspondent of the American:

CHARLESTON HARBOR, Friday, Oct. 2.

Monotonous inactivity continues to prevail here. The rebel fire upon our working parties has slackened. Gen. GILLMORE's works are rapidly progressing. Our batteries now reply to the James Island forts, and occasionally shell the ruins of Fort Sumter. The health of the army and navy is good. There was a heavy northeast gale last night, but our vessels sustained no damage.

Friday Evening.—There was considerable firing this evening between our batteries and the rebel works on James Island. Fort Sumter was also shelled for a short time.

There is a heavy cloud of smoke on James Island, apparently from a fire in Charleston.

AFFAIRS AT CHATTANOOGA

Advices from General Rosecrans to Tuesday.

The Bombardment by the Rebel Batteries.

NOBODY FRIGHTENED OR HURT.

Telegraphic Communication Between Nashville and Stevenson Restored.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 9.

The Republican extra says:

"The Government has advices from Chattanooga down to the 6th inst.

On the 5th the rebel batteries opened on ROSECRANS' position at long range—the longest being three miles, the shortest two and seven-tenths of a mile. The firing was not very rapid.

A dispatch from Gen. ROSECRANS' headquarters, dated the 6th, says: "Not a man was injured by the rebel batteries yesterday. Our men are not annoyed by the long range firing in the least, and go about their work the same as ever. The negro boys continued to play marbles while the bombardment was going on, which is some evidence that a very extensive alarm did not exist.

The Republican's Extra says: "Other dispatches go to show the impregnable position of ROSECRANS. There is no official confirmation of the rebel statement that two of ROSECRANS' pontoon bridges over the Tennessee River had been carried away. Telegraphic communication, broken by rebel raiders, between Nashville and Stevenson has been restored."

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 9—P. M.

It is ascertained that none of Gen. ROSECRANS' very latest dispatches, which are to the evening of the 5th inst., mention anything relative to the situation in the locality of Chattanooga, all of them referring entirely to military details. The other dispatches, however, recently received by the Government, speak of events in that quarter, and are from Gen. MEIGS.

Correspondence of the Evening Post.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Oct. 8, 1863.

Private advices from the Army of the Cumberland state that the rebels had made a reconnoissance in force upon the flank of our army, and had discovered one important fact—the character and numbers of Gen. ROSECRANS' recent reinforcements. Gen. HALLECK is here direct from Eastern Tennessee. He speaks hopefully of Gen. BURNSIDE's position.

It is the opinion of some of our military leaders in this quarter that LEE is sending off another division of his army to BRAGG, though this is merely conjecture.

GEN. WISTAR'S EXPEDITION.

Guerrilla Bands in Matthews County, Virginia, Dispersed.

Capture of Prisoners, Cattle and Arms, and Destruction of Boats.

GOOD CONDUCT OF COLORED TROOPS.

The following dispatch has been received at headquarters:

FORTRESS MONROE, Oct 6, 1863.

Maj.-Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in-Chief:

I have the honor to report that the expedition sent out on Sunday, under Gen WISTAR, to break up or capture the guerrillas and boats' crews organized by the enemy in Mathews County, has returned, having in the main, accomplished its object. Four rebel naval officers, twenty-five men and twenty-five head of cattle, belonging to the Confederacy, together with horses, mules and arms, are the results. A large number of rebel boats were destroyed. Our loss was one man killed. Gen. WISTAR reports the Fourth United States Infantry, (colored,) making thirty miles in one day, with no stragglers.

Major-General Commanding.

Prize Fight at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, Oct. 8.

Two steamboat loads of passengers started on Tuesday from this city to witness a prize fight in Solano County, between two pugilists named DUFFIN and WALKER. The fight commenced on Tuesday night. After seventeen rounds, it was adjourned on account of the darkness. It was resumed Wednesday morning, and continued three hours and twenty minutes, making in all forty-one rounds in four hours' fighting. DUFFIN was declared victor. WALKER was withdrawn by his seconds much against his will. WALKER was entirely blind. The fighting was declared good by all parties.

The National Horse Fair.

The National Horse Fair, to-day, was largely attended. To-morrow, the match for $1,000 occurs. Several celebrated horses are entered.

UNION MEETING AT COOPER INSTITUTE.

THE WAR FOR THE UNION.

Who is Responsible?—"The Union as it Was and the Constitution as it Is"—The Suspension of the Habeas Corpus, &c.

Treated in a Speech of Hon. Henry Winter Davis.

A large and highly appreciative audience was called together at Cooper Institute, last evening, by the announcement that Hon. HENRY WINTER DAVIS, of Maryland, would speak on the interesting and vital topics of the day. They were well repaid by an address of unusual power, eloquence and logic, exposing the shifts to which opponents of the Government and sympathizers with the rebellion have resorted since the outbreak of the war, and impressing the duty of every man who loved the country to support the Administration in its efforts to subdue traitors abroad and at home.

At 7½ o'clock, Mr. JAMES KELLY nominated as Chairman ELLIOT C. COWDIN, Esq., who was received with applause. Mr. COWDIN, on coming forward, said:

SPEECH OF MR. COWDIN.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: My first duty is to thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. The Government being formed by the people, the people must watch and protect it. Every man has a trust imposed upon him, and a duty to perform; he owes it to himself and to his country to perform that duty faithfully, and to execute that trust rightfully. Our institutions, thank God, are none of the Mead and Persian stamp; we have no law that cannot be repealed; we have no Constitution that cannot be amended to suit our wants; but while they exist, it becomes your imperative duty to stand by them at all hazards, [applause,] and to maintain them at every sacrifice. [Applause.] It is not enough to pay taxes and furnish substitutes; we must stand by the Government with alacrity. [Applause.]

SPEECH OF HON. HENRY WINTER DAVIS.

Mr. DAVIS, on coming forward, was warmly welcomed. He said:

FELLOW CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES: A year ago, in the prophetic eye of Mr. SEWARD, a great conservative party commenced to grow in the land, like the tree of the prophet's vision, which was to spread its arms until it covered the whole earth, and in the branches whereof the birds were to find a resting place. A year has passed by, and that plant proves to be of the passing nature of the prophet's gourd. The sigh hopes that then inspired the gentlemen who had carried the great Central States of the Union have never notes brightly colored. Their success has been their ruin. They attained the opportunity of violating the power of great States, which put their prudence to sleep, and allowed to escape from them the real purposes and views which they had been successful before the people in disguising. [Cheers.] Since their advent to power, the riots of New-York have illustrated who are responsible for the origin of the war. [Loud applause.] That is a topic which in my State we have long ceased to discuss. I observe that here our opponents consider it a topic which they think is fatal to us. I am no antagonists, on which they may even yet delude a few men, and one to which they address their elections. Now I am free to confess that on that subject I have had no hesitation from the beginning. One party say it is the South that is responsible for the war; another party say it is the North that is responsible for the war; and if our political opponents think they can make anything by the admission, I am willing to admit that the North is responsible for the war. [Cheers.] Responsible for it, because without war the National integrity would not have been maintained—the nation's honor could not have been kept unsullied; the men of the North could not have avoided it without humiliation. [Loud applause.] Are these not adequate justification? But if our opponents wish to press the question a little further back, I shall repeat my declaration, that the North, or a great proportion of it, is responsible, upon a different ground, for the war. They who annexed Texas; they who repealed the Missouri Compromise—they who supported the border ruffians in Kansas, and who struggled to fix upon an unwilling people the yoke of the Lecompton Constitution—they who denied to a majority the right of establishing such a Government as they desired within the limits of their own Territory—they who, during long years, accepted every limitation on the power of the Constitution, which the dominant party of the South thought necessary to the preservation of their power, and at the dictation of that interest laid waste wide regions. They who aided Southern politicians to do the things which were responsible for the war. [Cheers.] But the Seymours and Woodwards—but for the Vallandighams and the Woods—[hisses]—but for the Buchanans and the Pierces—where would the war have been? [Cheers.] But for the great class of Northern gentlemen who taught the South that nothing that could be asked would be refused—that no humiliation was so low that it would not be submitted to for power—that office could compensate every humiliation, and that no larger estimation was too rapid or humiliating to buy their favor; but for the men who taught them that they held the Northern party who acted with them at their beck and call—but for these gentlemen, there would have been no war. [Renewed cheers.] But for the men who joined JAMES BUCHANAN in declaring that the Constitution had left the Government powerless in the face of an armed enemy, there could have been no war. [Cheers.] But for the men who announced that war would commence in the care when our soldiers were sent to coerce the South; but for the opinions spread broadcast throughout the land, that the beginning of the war in the South would be the beginning of war in the North, bolstering up the hesitating courage of the rebels, leading them to infer that there would be a fire in the rear, which would paralyze the power of the Government—but for this organization of Northern men, acting for the South, and leading them to believe that they would shield them in the day of battle, and be a cloud to protect them against their enemies—you would have had no war. [Cheers.] Aye, and with all these things you would have had no war, had it not been for another class of a much more respectable class of individuals—gentlemen who form a mistaken sense of sympathy for what they supposed to be the weaker side, and at the bidding of a generous impulse, though an erroneous one, coincided in their political acts with the gentlemen I have described in very different terms—who went to the brink, and stepped back before the plunge was made—such men as GEN. JOHN COCHRANE and GEN. LOGAN, who were with those men until they made war, but are now with the nation; but for the countenance of these men lending respectability to what otherwise would have been a transparent reaching for power, but for these men the South could never have been led into supposing that the great body of the North were for ruining their interests, or content to let their "erring sisters go in peace." [Cheers.] These are my views plainly expressed, of the origin of the war. Now, how should it be ended? By peace? Who will make it? Who will propose terms of compromise, after those that have been rejected? Amnesty! They who suggest it wish to paralyze the National arm, and leave it defenceless in the face of its enemies. Peace—blessed and glorious peace! Men of the United States, that beauty is to be sought across the battle-field. (Enthusiastic cheers.) It is not to be had this side of it. It stands horror-stricken at what is in the way. There are men arrayed in arms who did not go there to play. They went there to effectuate the purposes of a long life; who burn with a thirst for power, and who are resolutely bent on triumphing. To them Union on any other terms is death—peace, on any terms, is disgrace—if they carry not with it independence. Submission! Submission, with arms in their hands, even as they are now, driven from great regions of territory, cooped up within the space of five States, instead of eleven, many of their armies disorganized, to them submission, with an army in the field, is a thing not to be talked of—not to be dreamed of. [Applause.] Submission! Distance forbids them, and the fear of shame amidst the spirits beneath whom they seduced with far other vaunts and promises. And yourselves, men of America! for you everything is propitious—hope beckons you on, but it is through disengaged fields, now it is only across them that peace is to be sought. [Loud cheers.] Are you under the delusion that there are Union men of the South? Certainly there are some. Do you suppose that a majority of any Southern State, if the question were left, to-morrow, between independence and Union—on any terms that Mr. SEWARD could offer, crawling on his knees to present the parchment, would accept the latter? It is only after the sword has been wrisken from their hands, after their armies have been dispersed, after their legislatures have been driven from newer and are fugitive, that you can ask them whether, according to the laws, they are willing to submit to the control of government. But how are we to accomplish this result? What are we waging the war for, fellow-citizens? for they who differ with us as to the responsibility of the war, differ also with us as to the purposes and objects of the war. They say the war is being waged for abolition purposes, or to destroy the liberty of the people, or to introduce a despotism, to abolish the laws and make ABRAHAM LINCOLN and his successors dictators over the people of the United States. We say that the war is being waged under the Constitution for the purpose of guaranteeing and restoring a republican Government in the great area now covered by the rebellion. (Cheers.) Will they admit that is be a legitimate object of the war? If they do, there is no difference between us. If they say that Congress, in the face of "the Constitution as it is," has no right and is not bound to guarantee a republican Government to the States in rebellion—to guarantee it, if it exists—to compel its acceptance, if a majority or minority see fit to impede it—then it will not do for these gentlemen to howl any more for the Constitution as it is. [Cheers.] If they mean to expurgate the Constitution to meet their views and desires—if, by crying, "The Union as it was, and the Constitution as it is!" they mean we shall roll back the car of Time—undo the last two years—obliterate matters as they were the day that ABRAHAM LINCOLN entered into power, or as they were on the 1st of November, 1860—if they undertake to accomplish that by the magic phrase, "The Union as it was," then they, of course, attempt impossibilities. [Loud applause.] Will they wake the dead to life? Will they restore to its undivided Virginia? Will they reinstate the secession authorities in eleven of the United States? Will they insist upon restoring the fugitive Governors of Louisiana and Tennessee?—of deposing Gov. PIERPOINT and reinstating Jean LACOUSE? Will they insist on subjecting the martyrs of East Tennessee to the fate from which we delivered them? Will they insist upon undoing everything that has been accomplished? If they do, then they ought to give their interpretation of the "Union as it was," when they use that phrase to delude their fellow-citizens, and let them judge whether, if it were possible, it would be accepted—or whether it is a delusion, a humiliation and a disgrace to talk about it. [Applause.] The "Union as it was" is as dead as the Empire of Rome! [Cheers.] The "Constitution as it is" survives and clings to it in its altered form, made in accordance. [Renewed cheers, and cries of "Bravo!" and "Hear!"] But it now it is too late to attempt to struggle the Constitution by the Constitution itself. [Loud applause.] The men of this generation have seen enough of that. They know now that a million of men are in arms because a generation has been taught that the Constitution was a mere negation—a mere barrier around Slavery—a protection to those who gained its power, and a stunning block to every one else. Aye, gentlemen, "The Constitution as it is!" I am in favor of it. I am ready for no changes that are not better; I am not for misconstruing one line; but I respectfully deny to any antagonists to put their meaning of it in my mouth. [Cheers.] My stomach was bred on old Federal ideas, gentlemen, and it is a little weak for the nauseous compound of this constitution of the latter day. [Laughter and cheers.] I take the Constitution as it was founded, as GEORGE WASHINGTON left it, as JOHN ADAMS administered it, and as ABRAHAM LINCOLN is executing it in his days. [Enthusiastic applause.] I am not in favor of any latitudinarian Constitution. I am not in favor of the usurpation of any illegal power. I fear the tendency is now on the other side, and that there is a desire to trammel the Government by old precedents that ought to be discarded, rather than to give it any excess of power. Some of the things that were cast up to the Government last year had their foundation in fact. Acts of Congress have wiped out all ground for the howl, and yet the howl goes on to deceive. No words have been thought too violent, no epithets too offensive, to describe the conduct of the President in making military arrests. Unfortunately it was called a "suspension of the writ of habeas corpus." It was nothing of the kind. The opponents of the Government, with a not feeling for our "erring sisters," went straight to the most honorable prejudices of the American people by taking the word and forgetting the law and the fact. [Cheers.] They argued the President cannot suspend the writ of habeas corpus, and inferred that he could not arrest a man in arms against the Government. [Cheers.] And that howl has been kept up to this day. Now I agree and I always say, nay, gentlemen, I maintain, that there is no power in the United States that can put itself paramount to law; and I maintain, likewise, that the wisdom of our ancestors so framed the law that when you got beyond its limits you were weaker than when in its restraint. Suspension of the habeas corpus! No! Arrest of men engaged in rebellion? [Applause.] Can the President make an illegal arrest? Of course he cannot legally make an illegal arrest. The question answers itself. [Laughter and cheers.] Now, how says the great Charter, or "Constitution as it is?" "No man shall be arrested except by due process of law," and our sagacious gentlemen, who criticise the conduct of the authorities in Washington, assume there can be no process of law except the judicial process of law. The Constitution nowhere says so. It is not a judicial process to shoot a man on the field of battle. It is not a judicial process to seize a prisoner of war, to prevent his shooting you; but it is due process of law for the traitor. [Applause.] It is the difference by law between peace and war—it is the difference between suppressing armed opposition to the Government and seizing men according to the Constitution and carrying them before a Court. Gen. WASHINGTON had the necessity of doing just what ABRAHAM LINCOLN is doing, and under his Administration the law was passed, in 1794, under which hundreds were called out (the first 75,000 men; and it was that law which JAMES BUCHANAN said was not constitutional. (Prolonged cheering.) The Constitution says the President may use the army and navy to suppress insurrection. That is not trying a man. He is beyond the reach of trial; he is armed in a way that the Sheriff cannot overcome. The President goes out against him in military array. He does not examine the man, whether he is in rebellion or not; he finds he has a gray uniform on and he shoots him. (Cheers.) Now, it is just as legal to shoot a gray uniform as a blue. It is an unbearable outrage to take away a man's life because he is dressed in gray! (Laughter and cheers.) Again, the Constitution says the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless in cases of invasion or public danger the public safety may require it. That is an entirely different thing from using the army and navy. This reaches men whose opinions and words are dangerous—who cannot be made amenable to justice, but whom the public good requires should be detained until the public safety permits them to go at large. It is that great discretionary power of arrest which Congress in its wisdom—and only a year too late, in my judgment—has placed at the disposal of the President of the United States in conformity with "the Constitution as it is;" and I do not find that being in conformity with the Constitution as it is at all softens the blow either to the secret traitors who find an eye upon they them cannot escape, or to these sympathizers who want them to escape. [Laughter and cheers.] Gentlemen, the men who urge these objections to the Government do not do it in good faith. Those things of which I have been speaking to you, are the A B C of the law; there is no lawyer so ignorant who does not know it. But there was something to be gained by playing on the ignorance of the laity; and they thought that as they were habituated to sixty or seventy years of time-honored peaceful freedom, when nobody remembered that Gen. JACKSON arrested in New-Orleans a Judge who bored him in his military proceedings, [cheers,] they could make a profitable investment by playing on the prejudices of the American people, and saying you can only be arrested legally by the Sheriff, and all other means is Black Republican mirmie and despotism. [Cheers and laughter.] England had her habeas corpus suspended for twenty years, and she is a free Government yet, and, in my judgment, had she not suspended it, she would not have been. And when you talk about the discretion being vested in a high office, where else would you vest it? It hurts no one except the person actually engaged in the rebellion, or so notoriously known to be so that he feels himself suspected. [Cheers.] And if I were called upon to state the balance of responsibility between the Government for laxity or too excessive rigor in the exercise of the discretionary power placed in it—looking at the traitorous atmosphere by which the Government has been surrounded—information conveyed to the enemy which constantly defeats our operations and kills many of our people in the field—I know not my the President, on the side of loyalty and against the blood of the free and loyal States—[loud cheers]—not against the time-honored liberties of the American people. [Applause.] If anybody is hurt, let him go to Congress next Winter and prefer a bill of impeachment against the President. (Applause.) If I happen to be there, I will give him my most profound and impartial consideration. Although I live almost upon the border of the theatre of war, where some people have been arrested, I have never yet heard of an error which picked up a man who was a man loyal to the United States, and incarcerated him. There perhaps have been some persons imprisoned, who, if I had been asked if I thought it best to arrest them, I would have said, "No, let him go—that cat can do no harm." I think the same in regard to that Maryland Legislature, which had been trying for three months to hatch the egg of secession. Men in arms in Frederick had told them three months before, "Close your doors and pass an ordinance of secession, and we will pluck you out of the windows;" and they never let the doors close upon their sessions for three mortal months. Two-thirds of the people of Maryland had voted three months before to remain in the Union—and she had then her full quota in arms serving under the Government. Though I doubt think they were worthy Fort Warren, still less do I think they were worth the printer's ink the World has spent upon them. Yet they cannot complain—they were plotting to do what they could not do—what they had not the pluck to do—what they were not willing to take the responsibility to do—what they were hoping some angel would come from the bottomless pit to do for them. [Applause.] No, gentlemen; the arrest of the Government; in my judgment, was upon the side of leniency and against the blood of our fellow-citizens. [Applause.] But what is the object of the war, and how shall we attain it? I say the object of the war is to restore the Republican Government in the rebellious States—not to bring back the gentlemen that will immediately strike hands with Mr. SEYMOUR when they are restored to power, by a long shot—not to reinstate the old coalition of Northern Democrats, now called Copperheads, and Southern traitors, to rule us—not for the purpose of restoring to a broken down aristocratic faction both power and the instrument by which to wield it. But enlightened by the events of the past two years I would deal with them according to their deserts and gamble the foundations of the patriarchal institution and build anew over its ruins. [Great applause.] What? But may our friends, "That is contrary to the Constitution as it is." [Laughter.] Not at all, it is just contrary to the Union as it was. Yes, I am for restoring Republican Government. In whose hands? In the hands of JEFFERSON DAVIS, of JOHN LETCHER, of Gov. BONHAM, of fugitive HARDEE, of Tennessee, and the nameless fugitive of Louisiana? Gentlemen, I don't wish to press on you any strict constructions. I want the Constitution enforced according to its plain meaning. Opinions may fluctuate—be this to-day and that to-morrow, apparently. Men think that military power is the Government—military power is the mere instrument opinion uses to execute its will. Everywhere this is so. It is so here. Opinions, though apparently unstable, are like the sea—its fluctuations are short, and ultimately they great one-level is the astronomer's point of calculation. It is opinion that places men in authority, arms them, keeps them in the field, moves them upon the enemy, disbanded them like the mustering mists when it changed. [Applause.] It is opinion that I am anxious to retain on the side of the Government. It is because the people of America are anxious on the subject of the legality of the conduct of their rulers that I press on you the proof that their conduct is legal. It is because of the dangers that beset us last year, when a large portion of the people were persuaded falsely that they were acting illegally, that I desire to call the minds of the people of the functions of the Republican Government and to settle the opinion of the people on the side of those in authority. When that is done permanently, then your armies will feel as if generations stood at their backs to follow up their thinning ranks—then they will know that they who perish will live in the opinion of those who come after them and the glory of to-day will bear up the martyr upon the field of battle. [Applause.] What is the object of the war? Not a wretched, hollow truce patched up between hunters for political power that they may set down and tinker for their degradation. For, gentlemen, I tell you, it depends upon you, and not upon me. If your Congressmen will do their duty, America will be a free Republic from Maine to Florida in less than two years. [Applause.] If you shy from the question, if the gentlemen that you send to Congress are afraid to meet it; if they allow any craven colonization to pass through their minds as to whether they may jeopardize a presidential election, or the election of somebody to Congress, or of somebody for Constable at home, then nothing will be done. If they come forward in the faith of the ultimate triumph of free principles of government, and say that they who have laid down their hundred thousand men under the sod have a right to say what shall triumph above it, they have the power in their hands. [Applause.] But some way the President's proclamation will execute it. I beg leave, with all respect to that measure, and the views and purposes which caused its utterance, undoubtedly patriotic, and, in view of our foreign relations, wise, yet, as a practical measure, conferring freedom upon the negro, I desire to say that those who rest upon it will find themselves deluded. Who will execute it? Oh, they say, if it is legal it can be enforced, and if it is illegal, it cannot be made legal. I differ with them on both points. If it is legal and is not enforced, it might as well never have been written. And when the enactment of war disappears from the heroes, and you have reinstated the friends of Gov. SEYMOUR in the State Governments of the South, and they will possess the Legislature to pass the laws and the Governor to execute the laws, and the Judges to interpret the laws, where will the rights of the negroes be when he produces the Proclamation in the Southern Courts of Justice? And if he cannot produce it there, he cannot produce it anywhere. And when they say that it is invalid, and cannot be made valid, it can be made valid by Congress. Being for the time the Legislature, and alone possessing legislative powers over the States, it can pass laws which it regards necessary to secure the permanent welfare of Republican government and entitled by this law, in the absence of government, to declare every slave free by law. (Cheers.) The States have no government of their own. That is a simple fact. If they have no government, there is no government there to execute laws, there is no legislature to pass laws, there is no rebel to be arrest wrong-doers, there is no court to execute law. There must be legislation somewhere, for absence of law is anarchy. Congress is the only legislative power for the State. It is bound to keep the peace and punish crimes, to levy taxes and institute Courts, to see that property is transferred, that rights are not invaded, justice is administered, the marriage ceremony performed legally. And if it can touch these relations at one point, it can touch them at another point. If it can authorize or forbid the relation of master and apprentice, it can authorize or forbid the relation of master and slaves. But when it is said that Slavery can only live under the State Governments, I say, in point of fact, they are wrong. It existed for seventy years under the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress in the District of Columbia, and those charged with Government did not say that when a Republican Administration went in Slavery went out; but they put it out by a law of Congress. It is vain to attempt to avoid legislation on the question by the introduction of bad metaphysics. One half of the people won't understand you and the other half won't believe you. But when you say the Government is centered with the right to guarantee Republican Government to all the States, and when the alternative is anarchy old institutions must fall, it is plain and simple and understood. But without power no right can be maintained. If we should center freedom and leave the negro a helpless and disarmed, disfranchised individual, you have left him the prey of those that wild political power ever hits. It will never be that there shall be consolidated liberty at the South, until the President shall not merely have proclaimed freedom, but taught the negro the use of arms and conquered him for freedom. [Great cheering.] That process is now taken. It is taken in my judgment very late, a year too late, perhaps two years too late, but it is taken and is going on. Let public opinion support the President and not only support him but urge him on. [Cheers.] Let those who think the negro not good enough to serve by their side remember that they served in the ranks of GEORGE WASHINGTON, and ABRAHAM JACKSON, and if they think the negro is inferior to them on the field of battle, let them see it by seeing who gets nearest the enemy's cannon, [applause;] and if they say that them that will fight as white men are not entitled to the freedom of white men, let them come and argue that before you. [Applause.] There can be no liberty in the world without adequate guarantee. The only guarantee to be given to the negroes is, that at the end of the war they are free, and we shall be in arms where it will be more difficult to redeem the Slavery than to let them remain free. [They so.] Great will be our infamy if we should attempt to expel the negro from our soil. The negroes are now helping themselves in all the Slave States. When the proclamation was put forth everybody said, Now we will have negro insurrections. Where has there been any negro insurrections? Where have there been negro massacres by the rebels? The prophecy sprung from the lips of the Prophet. I never sympathized with radical Abolitionists, for I thought them one hair's breadth this side of insanity. I know that, with only a feeble influence, they have been used by Northern Democrats and Southern Secessionists to assail and blacken all the rest of the people of the North. Now, when the question is on the point of triumph; now, when the only thing that frightens the Southern arms is the conscript of the Opposition, and hope that Mr. SEYMOUR will come to help them in the Treasury, I say, Never, Never! Never, if you are successful here and in Ohio and Pennsylvania, but if not assuredly—now when the last appeal is being made—now some men begin to talk about the negro equality, and revive the old disgusting prejudices which the enemies of the Republic alone use for our mischief, and which no man can ever use for our good, and I say, as little regard as I have for the Abolitionists, that the man who now utters a word for the purpose of awakening prejudice against any man on the side of the Government, is a traitor at heart, or so low in intelligence that he does not know the consequences of his acts. [Applause.] If negroes are not men we cannot make them men. If they are not our equals we cannot make them our equals. If they are our equals we cannot help their being our equal. I trust the Congress about to meet will be so characterized by firmness and wisdom, and there will be such wisdom presiding at the head of affairs in Washington that upon a calm, deliberate consideration of all the circumstances of the case they will say that the road to peace is across the battle-field, that there is and can be no peace, so long as there is a rebel army standing before our armies, that peace will follow our victory, anarchy follow their victory, and when we shall have prostrated their armies, dissipated the army of Georgia and Virginia, then you will find that there is peace within your grasp that is permanent for you and for your children, fraught with blessings, and not with war at the end of a generation, and that men, thinking so, will act upon it, and execute and exact the laws of the Republic in the spirit of their founders, according to the Constitution as it is, and we will say that that shall not be as it was these things that ought to be changed. [Applause.]

Mr. DAVIS retired amid great cheering, after which the audience dispersed.

THE RAMS AND THE NANNY-GOATS.

The State Democratic Committee.

We have consulted BUFFON and CUVIER, as also Peter Parley, and discover that in calling Mozart and Tammany the "Rams and the lambs," a mistake was made. A critical comparison of the nature of the animals, with the facts and information afforded by the authors named, satisfies us of an error, and that "Rams" and the "Nanny-goats" are the proper designations; Mozart the "Rams," Tammany the "Nanny-goats," and any one at all acquainted with the organizations will at once appreciate and approve the application. This, however, is merely explanatory and apologetic to "lions and lambs" for what they might justly consider an aspersion, and has nothing to do with the meeting of the State Democratic Committee on Thursday at the St. Nicholas Hotel, to which we now proceed.

The Committee met, DEAN RICHMOND, of Buffalo, presiding, who has a more enlarged physique than in this section he has yet exhibited. PETER CAGNEY, Secretary, was detained at home, and his place was filled by JACOB HABERNBURG, of Ulster. Dr. CARPENTER, of Suffolk, candidate for Health Officer, was present and he exhibited an amplitude of girth almost as formidable as Dean Dwight. He is a peace man, and his proportions would certainly indicate that he should be one of quiet habits.

Gen. GREEN—formerly John A.—well known in Syracuse as the "Grocery Firm," who appeared with a shirt collar of peculiar and striking proportions, was also on hand.

The absence of DUNCAN McGREGOR was noted, and it was reported that for two weeks he had been lost in the woods of Steuben County, where he had gone on a hunting expedition. The shade of DANIEL LAMONT and seven other gentlemen, as a mere matter of formality, were appointed to hunt after him. The two New-York representatives, JOHN E. DEVLIN in behalf of the Rams, and PETER B. SWENEY, of the Nanny-goats, were present.

Reports from different sections of the State were handed in, and were considered of a very favorable character. A resolution to raise $10,000 in this City for election purposes was adopted. Messrs. SICKLES and SCHAEFER and TUMAS were appointed a Committee to assess the faithful. Letters from the Chairmen of the State Committees of Ohio and Pennsylvania were read, wherein both States were represented as sure for the Democracy.

There was a large attendance of outsiders, and at the conclusion of the more formal business the doors were opened and a general mingling ensued.

Among the lobbyites were Messrs. N. B. Fowler, Ben. Wood, Stephen E. Russell, G. J. Tucker, G. S. Garvin, M. L. Harris, C. O. Cornell, W. W. Wright, Sandford E. Church, and others. The principal topic of discussion was the removal of the Police Commissioners, contemplated or threatened by the Governor. A proposition were auxious that the Committee should recommend the Governor to take immediate action thereon; and, indeed, this was favored by all the members of the Committee except the two from New-York, Messrs. DEVLIN and SWEENY, who opposed any action at this time. Mr. DEVLIN was especially decided, and on this point represented the feelings of nine-tenths of the Democracy of the City. The friends of the prominent candidates of the Democracy for Senators in this City and Brooklyn, are understood to be uncompromisingly opposed to a removal of the Commissioners now, and desire a postponement of all action in the matter until next Winter. At that time, if removal be made, they will have an opportunity to say something in regard to new appointees. This was the chief subject of discussion, and DEAN RICHMOND was finally instructed to advise with the Governor upon it. He, however, is known

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The Locust Point arrived last evening from New-Orleans with dates to the 1st. The papers make no allusion to the report published on Thursday, of the repulse of Gen. FRANKLIN'S command at Brashear City, and the subsequent victory over the rebels by Gen. ORD, nor do they state anything regarding the health of the city. We are informed by our correspondence that FRANKLIN'S corps, at latest advices, was encamped with WASHBURN'S command at New-Iberia, 50 miles from Brashear City, and that the comparative slowness of his advance was attributable to the obstruction of the Bayou Teche by the enemy. These obstacles had been removed, and the stream was open to New-Iberia. A guerrilla party had captured several of our men near Donaldsonville, and an expedition to clear the country of these depredators had been successful. Several important orders issued by Gen. BANKS have been made public. One announces that there will be a conscription in the First and Second Congressional Districts of the State; that the organization of one or more volunteer regiments for the protection and defence of New-Orleans is authorized; that men of color, from 20 to 30 years of age, employed upon Government or on private plantations, will be detailed for military service in the Corps d'Afrique, upon order of the Commission of Enrollment, and that arrangements will made to secure the crops, and laborers will be furnished as far as practicable to supply the vacancies occasioned by the execution of the order.

Advices from Gen. ROSECRANS to the 6th inst. have been received at Washington. The rebel statements respecting the artillery fighting on the 5th inst. seem to have been too highly colored. Their firing was not rapid and at such long range that our men were neither annoyed nor injured. The position of the army at Chattanooga is still considered impregnable to any assault of the enemy. The report that two of our bridges over the Tennessee River have been carried away by a freshet has not received official confirmation.

We have news from Charleston Harbor to the 5th inst., brought yesterday by the steamship Carolina, which arrived with the monitor Weehawken in tow. Everything remained quiet, with the exception of occasional firing from the rebel forts, but Gen. GILLMORE'S preparations were nearly completed, and active aggressive measures would soon be resumed.

Very good news is reported from the expedition which left Fortress Monroe last Sunday, under Gen. WISTAR. It was aimed against the guerrillas in Matthews County, Va., whose depredations invited punishment. The expedition not only succeeded in dispersing these scoundrels, but returned with twenty-nine prisoners, four of whom were officers, beside a stock of cattle, and a quantity of arms. A large number of boats were also destroyed. Gen. WISTAR speaks in praise of the Fourth United States Infantry, (colored,) which formed part of the expedition.

Rumors of a threatened attack upon Fort Smith by the rebels were current in St. Louis yesterday. A strong force of the enemy, under COCKRELL, are known to have crossed the Arkansas River, east of Fort Smith, on Sunday last, and to have formed a junction with COFFEY'S men at Crook in Prairie, Mo., with the intention of making a raid in Arkansas or Missouri. The rebels under QUANTRELL, HUNTER and GORDON were reported to be moving toward Fort Scott, and all the available cavalry in the Kansas District and a battery of artillery had been sent to reinforce the post. Little apprehension was felt that it could not be held. A letter from Fort Scott, of the 7th, states that the Staff officers and body-guard of Gen. BLUNT had been captured, as well as the command of Lieut. POWE at Baxter's Spring, and it was not altogether certain that Gen. BLUNT had escaped, although it was thought that he had.

Jo. JOHNSTON is reported to have been at Canton, Miss., on the 30th ult. with 15,000 troops, designed to operate against the reinforcement of ROSECRANS. Gen. STEPHEN D. LEE was near Vicksburgh on the same date, with 4,000 rebel cavalry.

Information of the raid by COFFEY and SHELBY in Central Missouri has been received at St. Louis. These marauders left Warsaw, and moved northeast to strike the Pacific Railroad at Laramie, and burn the bridge at that point. Gen. GROVER, commanding this District, was at Clinton, Henry County, on the 9th, in pursuit of the rebels, and other forces from Springfield and Lebanon were also pressing them hard. Under these circumstances, if the rascals escape, they will be uncommonly fortunate.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Supervisors held a long session yesterday, and appointed most of the Inspectors of Registry required for the City. The nominations for the Fifth and Twenty-second Wards, and a portion of the Seventeenth Ward were not complete. Those Wards were therefore laid over, and the Board adjourned till noon to-day.

The Joint Committee of the Common Council, to do the municipal honors to our Russian guests, met yesterday and decided to have the grand banquet take place at the Astor House on Monday week.

The British bark Glenisle, Capt. PLOCK, arrived at this port yesterday from Nagasaki, Japan, with 7,845 packages tea. This is the second cargo ever imported direct to this country from Japan—the first having been brought by the bark Benefactor.

The Troy Times says: "A man named GUINMAN, of New-York, who was arrested during the riot troubles in that City, has commenced a suit against Gen. WOOL for alleged false imprisonment, laying his damages at the modest sum of $50,000. The papers were served upon the General in this city a few days ago. He has retained eminent counsel, and will, of course, defend the matter to the bitter end."

In the Court of Sessions, yesterday, LOUIS HOLIN pleaded guilty to arson in the fourth degree, and was sentenced to thirty days in the City Prison. The Court adjourned to Monday next. Several of the riot cases will be tried in this Court next week.

The price of Gold was 1 ⅛ cent. higher yesterday. Last sales, 144¼@147. Bills on London, 161½ ⅌ cent. Money easy. Stocks higher than on Thursday, closing steady.

Breadstuffs, Provisions, Cotton, Tallow and Whisky were more sought after yesterday, and prices were very generally higher. A fair business was done in Hay, Hops, Leather, Fruit, Salt, Sugars, Metals, Oils, Seeds and Spices. Hops, Lathe, Lime, Molasses and Wholesome were in moderate request. The freight market was somewhat bristler.

Gen. Rosecrans and his Prospects.

The telegraphic dispatches concerning affairs at Chattanooga, which we spread before our readers yesterday and to-day, indicate that the military situation in that quarter is extremely critical. We do not say it is perilous to Gen. ROSECRANS, for we imagine that that officer now holds his position so steadily, and has such a largely augmented army, that, in the event of another battle, the chances are greatly in favor of his achieving a decisive victory over the army of BRAGG and LONGSTREET. But appearances certainly indicate that the quiet which has prevailed on the Tennessee since the 20th of September is likely soon to be broken, and that the thunders of war which crashed and rolled along the mountain ranges of Upper Georgia three weeks ago, will burst forth again before many days.

As we understand it, the opposing armies occupy, respectively, essentially the same ground now that they did after the close of the two days' battle—BRAGG being stationed on the slope of the hills west of Chickamauga Creek, and eight or ten miles south of Chattanooga, and ROSECRANS being planted in the citadel of Chattanooga, on the south bank of the Tennessee River. A rebel telegram of the 6th inst. states that BRAGG holds Lookout Mountain, which runs up very close to Chattanooga, and which has been considered as really the key to the latter position. They further assert that they opened fire upon ROSECRANS from Lookout, and that their shell exploded in our camp and fired a house in the town. An official dispatch from our own side confirms the statement that the enemy's shell were reaching Chattanooga, but denies that they did the slightest damage or annoyed our men, and other dispatches still assert that ROSECRANS' position is impregnable. There is no necessary contradiction between these statements, for though the rebel shell may reach the town, they may not be able to reach ROSECRANS' lines, which are not contiguous with the town. Further than this "feeling" of our position and the attempted labors of parties of rebel cavalry in our rear, there is no news of important action; but no one can read carefully the rebel and Union telegrams without being convinced that it is close at hand.

The fact of ROSECRANS' reinforcement, which at first was judiciously kept from the enemy, is now published far and wide. He has received two corps from the army of Gen. MEADE, and two corps from the army of Gen. GRANT, beside detachments from other points. This must give him an army much larger than he had at the battle of Chickamauga, when, with few if any advantages of position, he maintained his ground for two days against BRAGG and LONGSTREET. Whether or not the rebels have received still greater reinforcements than those they obtained prior to the last battle, we are not certainly aware. If they are going to fight us again, it may be assumed that they have; for they have confessed the unsatisfactory issue of the last battle, and they know how much stronger our force is now than then, and how hopeless their prospects are unless they have a far greater army in the next engagement than in the last.

We could wish it was ROSECRANS instead of BRAGG who was giving signs of offering battle; but, however that may be, we think that if BRAGG has the temerity to assume the offensive, he will be likely to pay even a greater price for it than he did at the battle of Chickamauga.

GILLMORE AND DAHLGREN.—We have not had more assertions and denials from Europe of the acceptance of the Mexican crown by MAXIMILIAN, than we have had assertions and denials from Washington and Charleston of the want of proper cooperation and harmony of feeling between Gen. GILLMORE and Admiral DAHLGREN, or between the army and the navy in Charleston Harbor. We receive so many dispatches concerning this matter—one affirming and another denying, one confirming and another confuting it—that we have ceased altogether publishing them. If the story of the quarrel is false, we have already published several denials of it; and, if true, it can do nothing but harm to keep it continually before the public. But now that we are compelled thus in this instance to mention the subject, we demand that if there be any such want of cordial cooperation and harmony as has been asserted, the Government put a period to it at once. Some of the details of the alleged quarrel given by correspondents, are of such a nature as to show that we cannot expect either action or results in Charleston harbor until it is settled. Thus the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing a few days since, asserts that the Navy Department has information that "the feeling between the two commanders could not be worse than it is, without an open outbreak;" and he gives this information:

"DAHLGREN is dissatisfied to represent to the Navy Department that there is an immense amount of brag about GILLMORE'S artillery performances, that it is all gammon about Sumter being reduced, that several of the heaviest guns are still in position and effectively manned, and that he does not run up his iron-clads to remove the obstructions in the channel, because, to do so, he would have to place them under those guns, at short range, and insure their being sunk. Meanwhile, GILLMORE claims to have reduced Sumter, and asks if the navy cannot muster force enough to overpower the handful of men kept there to hinder us from taking possession."

This is truly an amazing state of affairs—if it really be the state of affairs. The Government must know who is in the right, and who is in the wrong, in the matter. Gen. GILLMORE has certainly obtained the plaudits not only of his own country, but of the whole world, for the remarkable deeds he has performed in Charleston harbor, and for the remarkable results that have followed those deeds. Equally certain is it that this country and the whole world are disappointed at the action, or inaction of the monitor navy; but the Government has more definite information than the public, as to how far all this is just. But there can be no difference of opinion on this, that if the two officers whose cooperation is essential to success in this gigantic work they have undertaken, do not entertain mutual respect and work together in accord, one of them should be removed.

The Country's Struggle—A Few Words to Young Men.

Old Copperheads are natural enough; but young ones are monstrosities. It is hard for a man to rise who for years has cringed and crept, but young men can easily stand erect. The party spirit which has once saturated, sticks in, but it takes time to saturate—more time than young men have had. Yet the genuine Copperhead is made only by one of these two—either the servile spirit or party spirit.

By the servile spirit we mean the constant disposition to yield to the dictation of the Slave Power. With all the old Copperhead politicians, it was a habit formed before the rebellion. They had gradually come to feel that the very first public duty of a Northern man was to comply with any demands of the South. Far be it from us to say that this feeling did not often spring from patriotic motives. The meanest habits frequently begin in the best intentions. We have seen quite enough of the world to understand how true it is, as EMERSON says, that "faults may sometimes be found to have grown out of virtues, and very many of our heaviest offences to have been grafted by human imperfection upon the best and kindest of our affections." But this respectable origin does not make the fault itself any the less a fault. Making the most charitable allowance, the fact still stands that long before the rebellion, very many of our public men had contracted a habit of sacrificing all their better promptings to the behests of the Slave Power, and had thus gradually parted with their independence, until at last not the slightest vestige was left. Their spirit—whether they realized it or not—had become completely servile. In political life they were as absolutely subject to Southern masters as is any Southern slave in social life. But the saddest thing about it is, that, though the rebellion has for the time broken all political connection with the South, great numbers of them still retain the old habitual servility. There is a constant impulse to do that which they imagine will be pleasing to the eyes of their old overseers. We presume that many yield to this without any idea that it comes at all from the force of old habit; and that many, too, with such idea, honestly, though in vain, struggle against it. But the thing itself is still the same. It is the servile spirit that prevails. The extent to which this spirit still operates in our Northern politics is not appreciated. It is the real animus of all the opposition to civil enactments and military policies bearing against Slavery. Just as, formerly, it would not do to offend the slaveholders, no matter what principle was involved, just so now.

Of party spirit as an element of Copperheadism, it is hardly necessary to speak. Everybody sees it. A very considerable proportion of the old Democratic party are still held together by it, and systematically oppose the President, simply because he was originally elected by a different party. They make no account of the fact that the Government is now struggling for its existence, and that its constituted authorities have a claim upon the support of all the people without distinction. They put the interests of party before the interests of the country, and concern themselves far more about getting their own men into power than about aiding the men now in power to overthrow the rebellion. The Administration makes its appeal to the loyal spirit of all citizens. It gives its confidence to all, and confers its trusts and honors without regard to old party associations. The noblest portion of the old Democratic party have worthily responded to this spirit of the President, and supported him faithfully and most effectively. Party trammels have not held them for an instant from their public duty. But the other portion have not risen at all from their old party level. They look at everything from the old party points of view, and measure everything by the old party standards. The Democratic party not being in power, they consider opposition their regular business; and they follow this business with little or no regard to the bearings it may have upon the struggle going on between the Government and the rebellion. No historical fact is more certain than that this course of conduct has very often resulted in giving positive aid and comfort to the rebellion; and yet they have none the less persisted in it. It is this self-seeking, jealous, sordid, malignant party spirit that has generated the worst sort of faction which has existed. Without it Copperheadism, as we understand the thing, could not be at all. If it be the old servility to Slavery that bestows the creeping nature, the virus comes from this untimely party spirit.

But it is impossible to excuse a young man for giving way to any such influence. It has been his lot to come upon the stage when the old order of things is passing away. Slavery, which used to lord it so, is fast dying a death of unmitigated infamy. It is easy enough to understand how an old vassal of it should still bow before it with all his former dread, but that a man should now, in its present condition, begin to do so, is marvelous beyond all measure. So, too, it is intelligible enough how it is that so many old politicians still cling to their old party associations, without regard to the awful necessities and obligations of this new period, but all reason and all charity are alike baffled in the endeavor to find an apology for such public faithlessness in a young man who never passed out of his party pupilage. It is not for those in new life to be the victims of old habits. They are free to be governed purely by the generous sentiments and noble impulses which belong to the period of youth—such sentiments and impulses as have sent some tens of thousands of their elders into the battle-field to imperil their very life for their country.

The young man who opposes the Government in this crisis will stain his name for life. It will be told of him, he may depend upon it, to his dying day. His dishonor will be as much the more grievous and bitter as his future hopes are larger and mightier. It does not so much matter to the man in more advanced life whose career has been already in greater or less measure realized. It is pleasant to know that the immense majority of young men are most stanchly on the side of the Government, and, whether in military or in civil life, ready for every duty. The comparatively few of whom this cannot be said cannot too quickly pause and consider.

AMERICA IN ENGLAND.—Earl RUSSELL'S speech at Blair Gowrie, in Scotland, on American affairs, so far as we may judge of it by the telegraphic abstract given yesterday, is another proof of the clearer sense of justice that seems of late to have obtained expression from officials in Great Britain, and every manifestation of which is gladly hailed by the American people. His differences of opinion with the people of the North and with Senator SUMNER, and his defence of the past action of the British Government, we pass over at present. The past is history; the present is action; and if Earl RUSSELL and his Government will faithfully act up to the spirit of his latest speech, there will be no occasion for ill-feeling or belligerent action between England and the United States.

THE RIOT DAMAGES.—The recent decision of Mr. DEVLIN, the Corporation Counsel, that claimants for losses by reason of the riots in July against the City must commence their suits within the three months prescribed by law, or otherwise run the risk of losing their claims altogether, has caused a number of suits to be presented to the Comptroller. Over nine hundred "demands" were made yesterday by "the Merchants' Committee," on behalf of the suffering colored people. We understand that these nine hundred suits alone, if they are allowed to go before the Courts, will cost the City for legal expenses over one hundred thousand dollars. As this is about the sum total of the amount stated to have been lost by the claimants themselves, it is to be hoped that our already over-taxed City will not be subjected to this seemingly needless expense.

We had supposed these claims were long since disposed of, but it appears that only two hundred, out of a thousand, have been as yet called up for examination, and but one hundred have been awarded.

Winter is near at hand, and the want of stoves, beds, bedding and clothing will soon be severely felt by these poor people. It is the part of humanity, as well as economy, to have these as well as the other claims fairly and expeditiously examined and promptly paid.

THE WAR IN ARKANSAS.

Reported Capture of Gen. Blunt's Staff and Body Guard.

St. Louis, Friday, Oct. 9.

The Democrat's special dispatch from Leavenworth states that intelligence having reached Fort Scott of a threatened attack on Fort Smith, Gen. Blunt left the former post for the latter. On Sunday last the rebels, Gen. Cooper, with about 10,000 of Cooper's force, crossed the Arkansas River east of Fort Smith, and on the 1st joined Coffey at Crooked Prairie, Missouri, determined to make a raid into Arkansas and Missouri. On receipt of this information, all the cavalry in the Kansas district and a battery were sent to Fort Scott.

A letter from Fort Scott of the 7th says Lieut. Powe, of Gen. Blunt's Staff, had arrived. He reports that all the Staff and body guard had been captured; also, the command under Lieut. Powe, at Baxter's Spring. Gen. Blunt had got ten miles away, but it was uncertain whether he has escaped.

The rebel army under QUANTRELL, HUNTER and GORDON were moving toward Fort Scott. There was no danger of that post being taken, it being absolutely strong to resist attack.

GUERRILLAS IN KENTUCKY.

A Train Thrown from the Track and Robbed—Operations in Simpson and Warren Counties.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Thursday, Oct. 8.

One hundred guerrillas, under command of Capt. RICHARDSON, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, placed obstructions on the track of the Lebanon Branch Railroad, at Newhope, twenty miles from the junction, threw the train off the track and fired into it, but fortunately did no damage to the passengers. The guerrillas captured the train, burned two passenger cars, baggage and express cars, destroyed the locomotive, robbed the passengers of money and clothing and decamped.

Reports prevail of a guerrilla raid in Simpson and Warren Counties, under HUGHES. The guerrillas burned the depot at Auburn, on the Memphis Branch. Great excitement prevails in all the counties between Munfordville and the Tennessee line, which are infested by guerrillas. Maj. NORTON, of the Third regiment mounted infantry, pursued the rebels yesterday from Glasgow, and recaptured everything taken by them at that place. The report that the rebels robbed the Bank at Glasgow is untrue.

REBEL RAID IN MISSOURI.

Coffee and Shelby Aim a Blow at the Pacific Railroad—Small Chance of their Success—Our Forces in Hot Pursuit.

St. Louis, Friday, Oct. 9.

Information has been received at headquarters, in this city, of COFFEY and SHELBY'S raid into Central Missouri from Warsaw. They moved northeast, with the expected design of striking the Pacific Railroad at Laramie Bridge, burning that structure and destroying the road. Gen. GROVER, commanding the Central District, was at Clinton, Henry County, yesterday, in pursuit of the rebels. A force was also moving up from Springfield; another from Lebanon, which will press the enemy so closely, that they can hardly do much mischief. Gen. TOWNS left here last night, for Jefferson City, to take command of a portion of the force intended to meet the rebels.

THE WAR IN MISSISSIPPI.

Movements Against Rosecrans.

St. Louis, Friday, Oct. 9.

A special dispatch to the Democrat, dated Vicksburgh, Sept. 30, says Joe JOHNSTON was at Canton, Miss., with 15,000 troops, his supposed design being to prevent reinforcements going to ROSECRANS. Gen. STEPHEN D. LEE has 4,000 rebel cavalry near Vicksburgh. Johnston says their victories near Chattanooga, Lee says their victories near Vicksburgh. Johnston says Rosecrans has been reinforced with 40,000 men.

The Memphis Avalanche, Aurora, containing of their defeats at Chattanooga, says—Wheeler now be recognized. Our correspondence will also. VALLANDIGHAM will be cleared.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 9.

GEN. WADSWORTH'S FIELD OF DUTY.

The appointment at last given to Gen. WADSWORTH will take him to Minnesota. His functions will be of a mixed character, civil and military.

THE SOLDIERS' VERDICT AGAINST VALLANDIGHAM.

A canvass of the twenty-five regiments that only five out of nearly one thousand sick and wounded Ohio soldiers oppose the Union nominee for Governor. Four out of these five were rejecting to Bragg on personal grounds, since the thought of casting a ballot for VALLANDIGHAM. Only one of these is an out-and-out Copperhead. The Union ticket in Ohio will receive from fifteen hundred to two thousand votes from this district. About five hundred Union voters left for Ohio to-day.

THE TRIAL OF COUNT GUROWSKI.

The trial of the indictment against Count GUROWSKI, which began at 11 o'clock this forenoon, stumbled in the opening on the suggestion of a blunder in one of the material requisites to establish the charge, staggered near noon under the judicial intimation that it was a virtue in an employe of the State Department, or anybody else, to communicate to the South American States the secret intentions of the filibusters, and that a libel could not be predicated of such a communication, and fell flat an hour after noon in an unsuccessful endeavor to prove the printed libel by showing its resemblance to a written manuscript, bearing the same title which the Count had once taken to a book-binder. When the Court adjourned the District-Attorney was presenting a written demand that Count GUROWSKI should produce this manuscript of the libel, and so convict himself, and the noble Polander was looking astonished and the Bar and audience were laughing. Judge CARTER tried the cause.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE STAMPS.

The ruling of Commissioner BOUTWELL, from which Mr. LEWIS dissented in his compilation of former decisions was, that stamps can be both affixed and canceled by persons other than the signer and maker of the instrument. Commissioner Lewis' reaffirmation of his ruling is unquestionably law as well as logic.

RETURN OF RELEASED CHAPLAINS.

The following chaplains, captured at Winchester five months ago, arrived here to-night from Richmond: James Harvey, One Hundred and Tenth Ohio; Geo. H. Hammer, Twelfth Pennsylvania cavalry; O. Taylor, Fifth Michigan cavalry; R. W. Brady, One Hundred and Sixteenth Ohio; D. C. Eberhart, Eighty-seventh Pennsylvania; Louis N. Rowdrey, Fifth New-York cavalry; E. C. Ambler, Sixty-seventh Pennsylvania; Jas. T. Brown, Sixth Maryland.

A NOTABLE PRISONER.

Senator JOHN SLIDDER, brother of Jeff. DAVIS' Secretary of War, crossed the Rappahannock on Saturday last below Falmouth, and was nabbed by one of our picquets. He gave his name as Bowen, and representing that he was on business pertaining to one of his farms in Stafford County, was permitted to go.

THE MEDICAL INVESTIGATING COMMISSION.

The Commission to investigate the condition of the Medical Department have finished their investigations in Philadelphia. So far, not the slightest blame is attached to Surgeon-General HAMMOND.

A VETERAN CORPS.

Recruiting for the Veteran corps progresses very rapidly. In some instances almost entire regiments have reenlisted and applications are increasing.

SECRETARY CHASE GOES HOME.

Secretary CHASE went to Ohio to-night.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A SUTLER.

W. H. A. SMITH, widely known as the sutler of the Convalescent Camp, died this morning of apoplexy.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 9.

DEATH PENALTY COMMUTED.

The sentence of death by Court-Martial, which was to have been executed on private BRAWLEY, of the One Hundred and Twenty-Second New-York regiment, in the army the Potomac, at noon to-day, was suspended, by order of the President, providing the culprit would agree to make up the time he was absent by desertion, by continuing in the service after the three years' term of his regiment has expired.

PARADE OF ODD FELLOWS.

A procession of about three hundred colored Odd Fellows to-day, ending with appropriate oratorical exercises and festivities, is among the latest novelties in Washington since the Abolition of Slavery in the District of Columbia. Delegates were present from New-York, Pennsylvania, Boston, Alexandria, Baltimore and Canada. There were two bands of colored musicians, with a gorgeous display of regalia, banners, &c., with appropriate emblems, and several National flags. The dignitaries of the order rode in carriages. The procession was followed by a large crowd of colored spectators, while others accompanied it in carriages of various kinds and on horseback.

CAPTURED CORRESPONDENCE.

LETTER FROM GEN. GARDNER, OF SOUTH CAROLINA, TO JEFF. DAVIS.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 9.

The following letter from Gen. GARDNER, of South Carolina, was found among the captured correspondence of Jeff. Davis. It will be seen that he therein made important suggestions as to a great federation of the West India Islands, stimulated in its prosperity and advancement by African Slavery, as now existing in the Southern States.

(Private.)

MEXICO, July 19, 1864.

Gen. Davis:

DEAR SIR: I have only time before the express leaves for a very brief note. The affairs in this Republic are in a state rather retrograding. The treasury is empty. The possible replenishing by the treaty already anticipated in contracts to build up a military and naval power. The latter is an absurdity; the former a necessity to sustain the power which SANTA ANNA weakly aspires to. If he can command a revenue he may have a brief triumph. But the ignorance of himself and Cabinet in not yielding to the spirit and progress of the age and in vainly hoping that they can sustain the anticipated policy of monopolies and restrictions, abandoned by every enlightened country, will prove the downfall of centrality and of tyrannical exactions.

Guerro maintains her independence. Miscoan is following suit; and the recovery of State sovereignty by those two States, open to the Pacific and accessible to commerce, will enable them to sustain separate nationality, or to force back the federation of the States which has been absorbed under one nationality. If the leaders in Guerro and Miscoan understand the trumps of State sovereignty they will achieve a victory, and either remain as separate sovereignties, or reunite with old members under a new federation. It is generally understood that the States along the Rio Grande, with Sonora, Zacatecas and Durango are in a feverish state, and that most of the exiled Republicans are in wait on the frontier, prepared to take part in the first explosion. Information to-day from Vera Cruz reports dissatisfaction in that quarter. It has always been a Republican State, and its pronunciamento generally indorsed by Puebla, the most powerful of the old federation. So you may rest satisfied of one fact, that the political elements are convulsed, and an explosion will upset centralization and restore the federation, and with another expose SANTA ANNA to another successful retreat in exile, unless profiting from experience and the indications around, he coalesces with the Republicans and counteracts the monarchical influences which have thus far misled and controlled him. Rumor gives him the credit of endeavoring to fraternize with the Republicans or Moderates now in convalescence with the Purte. This (if they will trust him) is his only safety.

You will see, from the proclamation of the Captain-General of Cuba, that my speculations on the policy of Spain in relation to that island were not extravagant. If you will compare this document, which you can see in the Intelligencer, of the 15th of June, with the decree of a previous date on the propagation of African slaves, that they are in harmony. The statesmen of the world are awakening to the great truths which the Harpers and McDuffies of my little State first foreshadowed as to African Slavery. The subserviency and degradation of the inferior in the superior class, and the conditions on the part of the ultra Abolitionists have only increased their relentless, while the work will go on, and the destiny of Providence be fulfilled. Spain, Cuba, Brazil, Central America, Mexico, Texas, the United States, and everything and that part of the history of the world, which Provence has predicated for the future, will yet, by an equitable and mutual policy, be rapidly blending into harmony. Harmony even in the immediate future of a great federation of West India Islands, stimulated in their prosperity and advancement by African Slavery as now existing in the Southern States! History has never recorded such a commercial and naval power as Cuba, St. Domingo, Porto Rico and Jamaica, united under one federation, and that, too, under the management of Cuba, make it no longer the Queen of the Antilles; and if the United States, free to pay, can protect the white race in St. Domingo and give them the opportunity of improving their power in that garden of Eden, from whence French jacobinism drove the Africans and its Revs. Hayti and Domingo, now unknown to their deliverers from barbarism and their regeneration under the protection of African Slavery. An exciting so may seem the speculation, it is of work sacred part of Scripture, and does the ruler difficult to free the blind man and to restore the cripple to an African empire. It is in contemplation here, over, and becomes particularly interesting to the Southern States of our Confederation. Without emancipation, and free from those conflicts at Washington to check Southern emanation there, the Southern states of enterprise would find space enough and inducements enough to seek new homes for himself and domestics in the most lovely domains of God's creation, and all united in harmony under one homogeneous American system. I must again, therefore, invite your consideration to the suggestions in my last, and of the agency I would be pleased to exercise in the examination, if not the promotion, of these hallucinations. I should judge from the movements of Senator DOUGLAS that the report of Gen. CASS would have been favorable, and from his letter to the Evening Post he seems deeply impressed with some views I have devised, and which, I presume, must have been the objects of the Commission. I presume if diplomatic relations with St. Domingo are opened, that Gen. and Mrs. FIONA MONTGOMERY will return and have charge. My views were not to supersede those individuals who as merits confidence; but only to be a general inspector through all the islands named, extending to the minor, if deemed advisable, so as to be well-informed as to their state and condition, and the designs of those who at present direct their destinies. The President of San Domingo might consult with me in his negotiations, and both comprehending and forwarding their policy, set to concerts to advance. We could not begin the work too soon; and a most important preliminary would be, as in Japan, to secure a coal station at Samana. A rendezvous of American steamers at that point would not only afford us the means of protecting American commerce in the Indies and on the coast of South America, but to guard and watch with a faithful eye interests which are growing up in that quarter, and which seem to have united no little sympathy in the United States. If the President and Cabinet concurred in my views and wishes, all that will be necessary will be to put at my disposal the Fulton, to be at Vera Cruz in November, so that we may have the Winter months for examination, &c.

Let me hear from you as early as practicable, so that I may go to work to prepare for the Inquisitorial Circus. If aught can be done here to enlighten these people and make them understand their true interests, so intertwined with the American system, it will engage my unremitting vigilance. Bigotry, the old Spaniards, the monarchical influences, with that of those money-changers whom our Saviour drove from the temple, are so predominant in power that I almost despair of any regeneration in the cause of free trade as antagonistical to monopolies, restrictions, church temporalities and all the plunder involved in that policy. Yours, J. G.

SCHOOL OF MODERN GARDENS ORGANS.
ONE TO TWELVE STOPS.
$125 TO $600 EACH.
MASON BROTHERS respectfully invite attention to the following remarkable testimonials, which they believe to be unexceptionable, the eminence of their sources, and the emphatic character of the testimony itself, the most conclusive evidence which any manufacturers have ever yet been able to present, of the superiority and value of their instruments.

From GOTTSCHALK.

I congratulate you on the introduction of a new Musical Instrument, long wanted, and sure to find its way into every household of taste and refinement which can possibly afford its moderate expense. Your CABINET ORGAN is truly a charming instrument, worthy of the high praise it has received, and far superior to everything of its class I have seen. I take pleasure in commending it most heartily as everywhere worthy a place beside the piano-forte, of which it is a fine complement, from its capacity for rendering much delightful music, sacred and secular, classic and popular, to which the piano is not adapted. GOTTSCHALK.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 22, 1863.

From more than One Hundred Eminent Organists and Artists.

"We regard the instruments of Mason & Hamlin as the BEST OF THEIR CLASS of which we have any knowledge, and take pleasure in recommending their CABINET ORGANS generally, as very admirable and desirable for both private and public use." (Signed:)

DENTISTS.

A CIRCULAR containing many interesting facts respecting the NITROUS OXIDE GAS, with the cost of apparatus—the right apparatus—will be sent to any dentist, on receipt of the postage, three cents. The undersigned originated the use of the gas as an anæsthetic agent, and has had twenty years' experience in its manufacture. Most of the apparatus sold in this City for making the gas is worthless, as many dentists have learned to their cost. They have used it and failed, and then came to "headquarters" for instructions. Where the gas is pure, as it should be, and properly administered, not the slightest pain is felt in the extraction of teeth. Address

In the year 1845, Mr. Marchand first prepared the VENETIAN HAIR DYE. Since that time it has been used by thousands, and in no instance has it failed to give entire satisfaction.
The VENETIAN DYE is the cheapest in the world. Its price is only FIFTY CENTS, and each bottle contains nearly double the quantity of dye in those usually sold for $1.
The VENETIAN DYE is warranted not to injure the hair or the scalp in the slightest degree.
The VENETIAN DYE works with rapidity and certainty, the hair requiring no preparation whatever.
The VENETIAN DYE produces any shade that may be desired—one that will not fade, crock or wash out—one that is as permanent as the hair itself. For sale by all druggists.

FRIDAY, Oct. 9—P. M.

The price of Gold is 1 ⅛ cent. higher than yesterday—last sales this afternoon, at Second Board, at 146¼@146⅞ ⅌ cent. Exchange on London is 161½ ⅌ cent. for first-class Bankers. The market for Money is rather easier to-day than for any previous day of the week. The rates to the Brokers continue 6@7 ⅌ cent. The Treasury made no further call upon the Associated Banks for this week, although an impression obtained currency that $3,500,000 would be required on the recent negotiation, as usual, on Saturday. The receipts this week for the Popular Loan have afforded the Treasury Office here a sufficient amount of Currency for its present wants. The sales by the Popular Loan to-day, by Messrs. Livermore, Clews & Co., Sub Agents, alone amount to $325,000. The receipts at the Treasury Office on this account, altogether, amount to $848,000. The Customs Receipts in Gold were again large—$328,000.

The Stock Market continues inactive. Prices for the Railways to-day show a recovery of about 1 ⅌ cent. from the lowest sales of yesterday, and on some descriptions, like Hudson, Harlem, Michigan Southern and Northwest, the rise is 1½@2 ⅌ cent. Among the miscellaneous shares the rise on Pacific Mail is 3 ⅌ cent., Central American Transit 6@6½ ⅌ cent., and on Quicksilver Company 2@2½ ⅌ cent. The State 5 ⅌ cents of Missouri are weaker. The Government Stocks steady at the Board, and there is a continued large demand for the Popular Loan at the various Sub-Loan Agencies and at the Treasury direct. The general market at the Second Board left off steady.

The New-York Stock Exchange Board have definitely resolved to erect a building of their own for the Stock Exchange, and for this have concluded the purchase of the property 40 feet front on Broad-street, (No. 12,) near Wall, and 200 feet on New-street in the rear. The whole purchase involves a cost of $200,000.

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States was as follows: Receipts, $4,661,382 65, including for customs $328,000; payments, $3,791,039 62; balance, $39,419,901 79.

Messrs. Muller, Wilkins & Co. will hold their regular auction sale of Stocks and Bonds to-morrow, (Saturday,) at 12½ o'clock, at the Exchange salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. See auction column.

A general and material rise in prices of all really desirable styles of Dry Goods, especially of Domestic Cottons and Woolens has taken place during the past week, resulting mainly from the advance in gold and foreign exchanges, and the stiffening tendency of the market for the principal raw materials. The demand has been quite active for the season, and liberal sales have been effected, in many instances, ahead of arrival, stocks of popular fabrics having been greatly reduced, particularly with the jobbing trade. The auction sales of the week have not been remarkably important. The market closes too irregularly to enable us to give any reliable quotations, owing to the frequent fluctuations in prices, and the very high claims of the principal holders, who are not eager to sell at present, as they are anticipating a further rise. In Philadelphia, according to the North American, of this morning, business "continues very active and the prices of all the staple articles are steadily on the advance, under the rapid improvement in cotton. The stocks are becoming very much reduced, and the production is unusually light; many of the mills, both here and at the East, being idle, or working short time, owing to the high price of the raw material. Heavy Brown Cottons and Drills at 40c.; 5-4 goods, 45c. and 3-4, 37c. Bleached Cottons are better, and Prints are active and 1c. higher. Stripes, Ticks and Checks are also better, and Cotton Flannels scarce and tending upward, and for all desirable kinds prices are better and the demand active, especially for fancy Cassimeres, Doeskins and Satinets." The imports of Foreign Dry Goods at the port of New-York for the week ending Oct. 8 were $1,593,614 against $365,889 same week last year, and $313,519 the corresponding week of 1861. The following is the summary for the week:

	Consumption Entries. Pkgs.	Value.	Warehouse. Pkgs.	Value.	Withdrawn. Pkgs.	Value.

The receipts of the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company were for the month of September,

1863	$134,615 10
1862	99,436 24
Increase	$35,179 04

The month of September completes the fiscal year, which shows an increase of $251,414 75 over the previous year.

ROBERT BULWER LYTTON'S NOVEL.

HARPER & BROTHERS, NEW-YORK, PUBLISH THIS DAY:

I.

THE RING OF AMASIS.

THE RING OF AMASIS. From the Papers of a German Physician. By Robert Bulwer Lytton, (Owen Meredith.) 12mo., Cloth, $1.

The writer of this book is the son of Bulwer, the celebrated novelist—and the book itself may be called the son of Bulwer's "Strange Story;" its design being to mingle Romance with the Supernatural, and to hint the mystery of human passion as closely as possible with the mysteries of Destiny. It has some curious dissertations, one of which, on the relation of the Doctor and patient, is very suggestive; that on Apparitions is ingeniously curious. Those readers with whom Owen Meredith's Poems are favorites will surely not be disappointed in the story.

II.

KNAPP'S FRENCH READER.

CHRESTOMATHIE FRANCAISE: Containing, I. Selections from the best French Writers, with Copious References to the Author's French Grammar. II. The Masterpieces of Molière, Racine, Boileau, and Voltaire; with Explanatory Notes, a Glossary of Idiomatic Phrases, and a Vocabulary. By William I. Knapp, A. M., Professor of Modern Languages and Literature in Madison University, N. Y. 12mo, Cloth, $1 25.

The object of this work is to furnish in a single volume a complete Reading-Book for Students of the French Language. In the First Part, every Grammatical Principle is explained by references to the sections of the author's French Grammar, in which they are fully elucidated. The necessity of encumbering the text with notes is thus avoided. In the Second Part, the Masterpieces of the French classical writers are given entire. The Glossary furnishes an explanation of every idiomatic phrase; and the Vocabulary includes all the words occurring in the volume.

The French Grammar, for which this Chrestomathie is designed as a companion, is now in press, and will be issued as soon as possible. This will contain a clear statement and exposition of all the laws and usages of the language, arranged in scientific order. The two works, forming a complete introduction to the Study of the French Language, are designed to supersede the various empirical "systems" of teaching the French language, which have proved so unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Henry Wood,
Author of "Verner's Pride," "Squire Trevlyn's Heir," "The Earl's Heirs," "East Lynne," "Channings," "Mystery," "A Life's Secret," "The Castle's Heir," &c., &c.

THE SHADOW OF ASHLYDYAT is published and for sale THIS DAY by all booksellers and news agents, and is printed from the author's manuscript and advance proof-sheets purchased direct from Mrs. Henry Wood, and is issued here by us eight weeks in advance of the completion or publication of the work in Europe. It is now two years since Mrs. Wood began the publication of this work in Europe in monthly parts, and it has created a sensation there second to no work ever before issued in that country.

It is published complete in two large octavo volumes, paper cover, price $1, a copy, or bound in one volume, cloth, for $1 25. We also publish a "Railway Edition" of it, complete in one volume, paper cover. Price $1.

READ THE FOLLOWING NOTICE OF IT:

"The Shadow of Ashlydyat. By Mrs. Henry Wood. T. B. Peterson & Brothers have just issued from the manuscript and advance proof-sheets, purchased from Mrs. Wood at a large price, an entire new novel, entitled 'The Shadow of Ashlydyat,' which is issued here eight weeks in advance of its completion or publication in England. It will be read with interest by all who delight in the marvelously and ingeniously constructed plots which are characteristic of this authoress' writings. Mrs. Wood has a marvelous faculty of charming her readers with the skill with which she puts her characters on the stage, of multiplying her plots, of introducing and using to interesting ends her minor incidents. 'The Shadow of Ashlydyat' will not be laid aside without eager perusal at the end, for the reader will be constantly led aside into new avenues and lanes, with each unchanging view new and pretty, that he never wearies of the path; there are so many rare faces among the minor actors, and such a magic interest thrown around all they say and do, that his delectation is complete, and his interest never flags for a moment. It is but justice to say that, in these respects, which are the secret of Mrs. Wood's great popularity as a novelist, this, her latest work, is her best. It is, indeed, a more finished production than 'Verner's Pride,' which has generally been accounted her happiest effort. This volume will add greatly to her high reputation, and will be perused with eagerness by the whole reading public, while in less than three months it will be enjoyed in a dramatic form from half the theatres in the country. It is remarkably well printed, in large type, and on fine paper."

Copies of either edition will be sent to any one, free of postage, on remitting the price to T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, in a letter.

Those who have had the pleasure of reading this novel, speak of it in the most enthusiastic terms, and predict for it a brilliant run.

A lady of rare culture, whose opinion of a new book has great weight, says of it, "I can only place PIQUE before the reading public, assured of its success, as it has the merit of being amusing, pleasantly written, and engrossing. The characters being high-bred men and women, are charming companions for an hour's solitude, and one puts the book aside regretfully, even as one closes the eyes on a delicious vision."

ELEMENTS OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

C. SCRIBNER, No. 124 Grand-st., New-York, HAS JUST PUBLISHED AN OUTLINE OF THE ELEMENTS OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. By Prof. E. S. Clark. 1 vol., 12mo. $1.

"The merit of this work is not only in the importance of its subject, but in the judicious brevity with which it is compiled, compressing a vast mass of the results of investigation in a narrow compass. As a manual it is especially valuable, discussing as it does a subject of great importance to every English scholar and of deep interest in itself."—New-York Observer.

"A most compact and admirable volume, containing a vast amount of valuable knowledge which is widely scattered, yet is here so well condensed and displayed as to make it easily available."—New-York Evening Gold.
